Halloween History

Halloween is on October 31st, the last day of the Celtic calendar. It is a holiday honoring the dead. Halloween was referred to as All Hallows Eve, which is the evening before All Saints Day and dates back to over 2000 years ago. It was referred to as Samhain which signifies "end of the summer " or November. Samhain was a harvest festival with huge sacred bonfires, marking the end of the Celtic year and beginning of a new one.

Halloween costumes originated from the Celts when they lit huge bonfires and celebrated Samhain by dressing up in animal skins. The Celts thought that spirits and ghosts roamed the countryside on Halloween night. They began wearing masks and costumes to avoid being recognized as human. They also left gifts and treats to pacify the evil spirits. This custom evolved into trick-or-treating.

Traditions

- Orange and black are Halloween colors because orange is associated with the Fall harvest and black is associated with darkness and death.
- Jack o' Lanterns originated in Ireland where people placed candles in hollowed-out turnips to keep away spirits and ghosts on the Samhain holiday. The traditions of carving jack 'o lanterns originates with the Celts. A miserable man named Jack, tricked the devil. Unable to enter heaven or hell after his death, he was destined to roam the earth. Jack placed a piece of coal into a carved-out turnip and used it as a lantern to keep the evil spirits away. Today, pumpkins (which are easier to cut) are carved into jack-o-lanterns, lit and placed outside of doorways to keep the evil spirits away.
- Black cats are believed to be connected to evil and linked to witchcraft. They protect the witch's powers.
- Crows are viewed as a bad omen, often foretelling death. If they caw, death is very near.
- Halloween was brought to North America by immigrants from Europe who would celebrate the harvest around a bonfire, share ghost stories, sing, dance and tell fortunes.
- In North America, Halloween is the 2nd most commercially successful holiday, with Christmas being the first.
- Vampires are mythical beings who defy death by sucking the blood of humans.
- Werewolves are shape-shifting humans and are associated with witchcraft and the devil.

<h2>Halloween History</h2> Halloween is on October 31st, the last day of the Celtic calendar. It is a holiday honoring the dead. Halloween was referred to as All Hallows Eve, which is the evening before All Saints Day and dates back to over 2000 years ago. It was referred to as Samhain which signifies "end of the summer " or November. Samhain was a harvest festival with huge sacred bonfires, marking the end of the Celtic year and beginning of a new one. Halloween costumes originated from the Celts when they lit huge bonfires and celebrated Samhain by dressing up in animal skins. The Celts thought that spirits and ghosts roamed the countryside on Halloween night. They began wearing masks and costumes to avoid being recognized as human. They also left gifts and treats to pacify the evil spirits. This custom evolved into trick-or-treating.

Support: Document*Halloween

October 31st is Halloween. Halloween is made up of two words: Hallow and Een. Hallow means saint and een means eve. Halloween means the night before All Saints' Day. It is a very special day for children in Canada, in the United States and in England. On Halloween, children dress up in costumes. Some children wear masks and some wear makeup. They dress up as monsters, ghosts, witches, skeletons and mummies. In the evening they walk around in their neighbourhood and go from house to house shouting "Trick or treat".

At each house, people give out sweets. One traditional custom is to put a Jack O' Lantern on your doorstep or window. To make a Jack'OLantern, you clean the inside of a pumpkin, cut out the eyes, the nose and the mouth and put a candle inside it. People also decorate their house with pictures of black cats, spiders or witches and bats and sometimes ghosts.
